FOUNDER & ARTISTIC DIRECTOR of THE READERS’ THEATRE OF ITHACA, 2010-2015

In 2010, Anne Marie started a unique theatre company taking performance readings of plays to a whole new level. The idea for The Readers’ Theatre was born during the 2009 U.S. economic downturn as Anne Marie searched for a theatre model that would adapt to the changes in the economy.

The ensemble included professional and non-professional actors performing plays from esteemed and award-winning playwrights. The theatre company also brought theatre online by intersecting the mediums of theatre and film into one. This began in the summer of 2013 when Anne Marie’s play, Soul Mates, was filmed for The Readers’ Theatre’s website, bringing audiences an opportunity to watch the company’s productions anytime, anywhere.

Also in 2013, The Readers' Theatre created The Writer's Café, a podcast of new and unproduced plays by New York State playwrights, performed by professional and non-professional actors across the U.S. The Writer's Café was free theatre for everyone. It appealed to people's imagination through their auditory senses, and while fans of radio entertainment could appreciate The Writer's Café, The Readers' Theatre believed the blind would especially embrace this unique accessibility to the performing arts.

The Readers' Theatre reached many of its goals. It demonstrated that theatre can be stripped down to its very bare essence and still leave audiences with a sense of wonder. It also showed that theatre doesn't need to be performed in a traditional setting. All of the intimate locations allowed audience members a chance to practically touch the actors on stage, as the actors – metaphorically speaking – touched the audience. www.thereaderstheatre.com

JOURNALIST, BLOGGER, & PHOTOGRAPHER 2007-2015

The Ithaca Journal, The Star Gazette, Press & Sun Bulletin, Upstate New York, 2007-2013

Food reviewer (online and in print) for restaurants, bars, and bed and breakfast locations: “Ithaca Eats.” Columnist (online and in print) for “Instant Message” and “Alternative Tompkins” (created both columns). “Instant Message” was an uncensored column written in a monologue format and gave teenagers a voice to speak honestly about everything under the sun from sex, drugs, eating and mood disorders, bullying, being gay, surviving the divorce of parents, coping with death and illness, social pressures at school, etc.

Tompkins Weekly, Ithaca, New York, 2007- 2015

Weekly news journalist and photographer (online and in print) covering breaking news in and around the Finger Lakes Region. Topics ranged from local politics to ground-breaking news from local colleges.

Rasa Spa, Ithaca, New York, 2007-2012

Created and wrote a blog for Rasa Spa's meditation class – a weekly blog with one to three entries per week with information following Anne Marie's weekly group meditation class. Topics ranged from learning to live with compassion, coping with anger, learning to listen, and what to expect when meditating.

Your Health Monthly, National Magazine, Gannett Pacific Publications, 2007-2011

Correspondent (online and in print) covering articles about alternative health. Topics ranged from alternative approaches for illnesses and diseases to the latest products used to support physical and mental health.

Good Life Magazine, Central New York Magazine, Gannett Pacific Publications, freelance 2010

Correspondent for upscale glossy magazine covering stories about the people who enrich Central New York.

The Ithaca Times, Ithaca, New York, 2007-2008

Columnist (online and in print) for "Police Beat" and "Jenny About Town" (created both columns). "Police Beat" was a column about Anne Marie's adventures riding in a police car late at night with a rookie police officer. "Jenny About Town" was a column about Anne Marie's observations moving from NYC to the small town of Ithaca.

PROGRAM DIRECTOR AND PRODUCER 1996-2007 (project-by-project basis)

Program Director, The Greenhouse Spa, New York City, New York

Wrote all copy, articles, ads, and press releases for outgoing Greenhouse mail, e-blasts, promotional materials, and newsletters. Booked top experts, authors, and celebrities to give lectures and talks at the spa. Oversaw designs of the Art Director, interacted with the press, and communicated extensively with the spa staff.

Program Director for NYC Socialite Mrs. Audrey Gruss, New York City, New York

Supervised over 30 household staff members among five international homes; maintained personal, business and charitable calendars; coordinated VIP events; and corresponded with major political figures and celebrities. Played key role in assisting Mrs. Gruss in realizing her foundation "Hope for Depression," by securing the participation of renowned physicians, celebrities, and socialites through strong oral and written communication skills.

Program Director, The Brine Charitable Trust, New York City, New York

Played key role in transitioning founder Kevin Brine's philanthropic dream into a viable charitable trust. Oversaw ongoing event functions, handled invitations (design, distribution & tracking), venue selection, catering, entertainment, and décor for elite charitable functions. Entrusted by founder to manage relationships and serve as primary contact for diplomats, ambassadors, VIP's, and major institutions including The Metropolitan Museum of Art, The Whitney, New York University, and the New York Public Library. Capitalized on pr/advertising background to oversee the design of the website www.projectphilanthropy.com.

Art Producer, Serino Coyne Advertising, New York City, New York

Played key role in repositioning this agency into one of the top Broadway advertising firms by sourcing, evaluating, and securing top fashion photographers and illustrators for major ad campaigns. Worked with a team of eight Art Directors while producing major photo shoots for The Producers, Cabaret, 42nd Street, The Music Man, and a number of other Broadway musicals. Successfully introduced weekly "Photo Exhibits" for Art Directors where top photography agents showcased new talent. Administered art budgets, negotiated contracts, hired creative teams, assisted celebrities, and oversaw makeup artists and stylists during photo shoots.

Producer, "Explorations," New York Fashion Week, New York City, New York

Producer for fashion show highlighting the following clothing designers: Henry Lehr of American Colors, Bi Li of Earth Speaks, Mr. B., Salonas 7, February Eleventh, and Feuerwasser. Sponsors: Vespa, Orbit, Bentley, The Millennium Broadway Hotel, Hue, Conair, and OP Vodka. Cast the models and choreographed the show.

Junior Account Executive, LaForce & Stevens PR, New York City, New York

Account executive for the U.S. launch of the beauty store, Sephora, located in SoHo. Worked closely with Vice President of Sephora, coordinating press presentations and launch parties. Additionally, wrote compelling and creative business proposals securing new accounts including Sephora, The Body Shop, Yves Saint Laurent, Glenlivet, Taittinger Champagne, Nautica, Perry Ellis, Lancaster, Kate Spade, and Hard Candy.
